RESTRICTIONS ON THE ACCEPTANCE OF RABBITS FOR MAILING IN VIRGINIA

DECEMBER 9, 1936.

In connection with section 593, Postal Laws and Regulations, as amended by Order No. 8735, April 13, 1936, governing the acceptance of game for mailing, attention is called to the fact that the State of Virginia has declared it unlawful to sell, buy, or offer for sale or trade in that State any rabbit or squirrel killed by shooting. Consequently, rabbits or squirrels which have been killed by shooting should not be accepted for mailing by postmasters in Virginia.

The laws of the State of Virginia permit the trapping of rabbits in that State during the open trapping season, namely, November 15 to January 31. Therefore, the bodies of rabbits which have been caught by trapping may be accepted for mailing in that State, provided the shipments otherwise conform to the laws of Virginia governing the bag limit, method of preparing for shipment, etc., prescribed by such laws, with which postmasters in the State of Virginia should familiarize themselves. In order that parcels containing the bodies of trapped rabbits may be identified as properly acceptable for shipment, such parcels should be endorsed to indicate that the rabbits were trapped, or if shot that they are being sent as a gift.
